“Norfolk 101: Citizens Academy in Fourth Week”

What happens when your tour at the fire station is interrupted by a fire? The Norfolk 101: Citizens Academy participants had a different tour guide step in and show them fire equipment, the hazardous waste trailer and other fire house staples. The group was at the station as part of the Public Safety Session. The Norfolk 101 program is put on by the City of Norfolk for citizens interested in learning more about City government. They are in their four session having toured the City Administration building, the library, the information technology offices, the police station and the water treatment plant. Next week the Housing and Economic Development divisions are on the agenda. For more information about the program or interested in participating call 402-844-2034.
