“New Bike Lane in Norfolk on Third Street”

Norfolk’s first bike lane was marked with painted arrows, bicycle figures and street signs on Third Street this week. City of Norfolk street workers painted lines delineating a bike path on the east side of the street from Elm Avenue to Georgia Avenue south of the YMCA. Parked vehicles are not allowed along the east side of that section of Third Street so bikers can use the lane to go either north or south. This spring the Norfolk City Council approved a new concrete trail to be built going north from Elm Avenue near 4th Street north connecting to the bike lane behind the YMCA.
